A PERSONAL NOTE: Here is some good news and bad news: First the good news—I am working fulltime now, teaching piano and working in other musical activities. For the benefit of new subscribers, for about a year I was out of fulltime work. Now the bad news: The newsletter may be late. Also, it may take 2 days for letters to be answered and up to 5 days for tapes to be sent. This may seem silly for those readers that take a longer time than this anyway, but for many months I answered letters the day I received them and tapes were sent no more than 2 days after I received the request...Also I am discouraged with responses to various questions I have asked in past issues. The questionnaire about the convention in the Jan. issue was answered by only 12 people. The information about a list of collectors in the Feb. issue was answered by 10. I have close to 250 subscribers. Why??? Do you read "Hello Again?" Do you wait several weeks before reading it. Am I expecting too much. I am getting more response for the logs for which you send SASE so I will continue to prepare them when I get the information. DETAILS ABOUT THE LIST OF COLLECTORS FOLLOW:...Withing 4 weeks I will have a comprehensive list of close to 200 collectors, their age, size of collections and interests. They will be grouped as follows: GROUP A; Collectors with several thousand who have just about everything and will trade only for something new and unusual: GROUP B; 2000 shows and up who trade more actively, either looking for all shows of good quality or certain programs. Most people in this group often help beginners if time permits; GROUP C; 750-2000 who are actively building their collection. GROUP D; Less than 750 who have started recently or trade at a much slower pace; GROUP E; those that sell at reasonable prices...Collectors on this list should represent his shows in his catalog as accurately as possible and make good dubs. Ratings should be clear...Remember send in current information. I will wait for 4 weeks following mailing of this newsletter before preparing the list. I will use what information is sent to me plus information in all past issues of Hello Again. Much of it will not be up to date so please put me up to date if you haven't written for a while. If you DON'T WISH to be included on this list let me know. Otherwise I will include all information I can find...By using this list people can write to people with comparable collections. Remember, send your name, group you would be in, age, number of programs, cost of catalog, if any, and top interests... Many thanks to John Dunning for this idea.

TITLES AND DATES: Spelling: "Three Skeleton Key." SUSPENSE: Birthday Present and Last Trip, 11/2/59 the same...Date of JACK BENNY with @ Jessel (Home Ins.) is 3/16/58...Bruce Ruggles is looking for correct dates of following so he can recatalog his programs: BULLDOG DRUMMOND; Lonely Trail Book Mystery...MOVIE-RADIO GUIDES 10th anniversary show.. Eric invested $200.00 in a duplicating machine and lost his money. At the moment he is out of funds and has had to cease all activities. Remember, it is always wise to check the Better Business Bureau before sending money in the mail, especially sizable amounts, to companies that aren't familiar...Received latest "Radio Nostalgia" published by Virgil James, Box 8007, Union City, NJ 07087. This issue features articles about the Lone Ranger. It is a combination catalog-fanzine. They are $1.00 each or 12 for $10.00...Latest little publication is "Golden Radio Journal" put out by Roy Bright. It is being written in conjunction with Echoes of the Past. It is free. Write Roy, 2929 St. Philomena Ct, Peoria, Ill 61604...Received latest issue of "Riverside Quarterly", published by Leland Sapiro, Box 40, Univ Station, Regina, Canada. This is a beautiful quarterly devoted to science fiction. Jim Harmon's article concerns the popularity of certain radio programs. Price: $2.00 a year...The Collector of almost anything would enjoy "Collectors News." It is basically an ad magazine but has articles about anything that you could think of. It is published monthly by R A Kling and is $4.00 a year. Cost of ads are extra...John Gatto, 134 W 88th St, New York, NY 10024 has 2 projects he is working on. First he would like to make a study of the most popular program of each series. This and the following will be published. Send on a 3 by 5 card each series, network, running time, description of show, its stars, date, and the show of that series you like the best and why...John would also like to compile a master list of fans and collectors of the imagination such as radio, television, old movies, comics, pulps, science fiction, etc. He is aiming for a list of 10,000. Again on a 3 by 5 card send your name, address, phone, business, particular interest. John would like those who have magazines they edit or publish to possibly share their mailing list. (A list such as this and my list of just radio collectors should just have names of people who wish to be on it.)...

and radio commercials for Secrets... Eunice Howard, who played Linda on PEPPER YOUNG'S FAMILY, now lives in Roxbury Falls, Mass...Olan Soule, who was on FIRST NIGHTER, is in the movie "The Seven Minutes"...Charles Stumpf recently wrote to Karl Swenson and Joan Thompkins congratulating them on recent TV performances, not knowing they were husband and wife. Both of them were involved in many radio programs.

THE TAPE DECK: Ed Peck writes: After receiving several tapes which were dubbed from masters which were on cassettes, he questions that procedure. (I personally feel that anyone dubbing onto a reel should be dubbing from a reel. If you dub from cassettes let the other person know. Ed's tapes were very poor-ed)...DOUBLESPEEDING; Bob Proctor writes; Doubletiming a dub should not be done unless your equipment has very good channel separation. Crosstalk builds up on tapes that have been doubletimed too many times along the way (This topic has been examined at great length in previous issues. Any more comments-ed)... I received several comments concerning my brief mention of Dolby units in the last issue. Richard Arnold writes: An article in the December issue of Stereo Review explains the function of both the new Dolby units and the new Kenwood De-Noisers. The Dolby units are excellent for eliminating 90% of the noise produced on a tape by that recording. It will not remove any noise that is already recorded on the tape that you are dubbing. The Dolbyised tape must be played back through a Dolby unit to get natural sound. For this reason we, the collector, can't use Dolby unless our fellow collectors have Dolby units for playback of tapes we would send them...Kenwood's answer to the noise problem is one that can be of great use to the OTR collector. These units are true filters for removing noise already recorded with our radio shows. They can be used both for listening and recording. The cheaper of the Units, the KF-6011 ($79.95), is a single rejection filter centered at 7000 Hz. but it is broad enough to be effective in the 4000 to 15000-Hz range. The KF-8011 ($199.95) is a much more versatile unit which has four separate switchable filters in the 3500 to 15,000 Hz range. According to Stereo Review in listening tests these 2 units effect on noise are equal.

MAILING YOUR CATALOG

I have received a complaint from a reader about catalogs. He has received a few letters from readers of this magazine asking for a copy of his catalog. In return they will send theirs. Well, the individual sent his catalog to several readers and got no catalog in return...I feel this is unjustified. In a case like this, if YOU send a letter requesting a catalog, RETURN it if you find nothing in it you want. If not, SEND YOURS. Most people don't have free facilities and material for preparing catalogs. Many spend 50¢ to $1.00 a catalog. A swap of catalogs is the basic premise of trading. SO--if you request a catalog send yours...If you receive an unsolicited catalog this is different. Some of the larger collectors, like myself, don't have complete catalogs anymore. They issue supplements. If I receive a request for my catalog I send my latest supplement. If a trade occurs I will then send what earlier supplements I have. If I receive an unsolicited catalog I sometimes return it if there is nothing I want. One reason why I am preparing a list of collectors with collection size is so traders can mail lists to those with collections similar to theirs...Please be courteous.

LET THE BUYER BEWARE: Traders have had trouble with the following and no response has been heard from them: Robert Vosburgh, Tom Cole, Nostalgia in Miami, Richard Casciello. One collector has had trouble getting tapes from Jim Harmon. Is he still selling? Mike Edwards has moved and is trying to fulfill obligations (14 Milford St, Medway, Mass 02053.) Chet Sherksnas is not trading anymore but apparently will try to fulfill back orders...Alice Bethal has heard of an outfit called ROUNDSOUND. Subscription is $15.00 a year and it is supposed to be a magazine for record collectors. Ads are extra. Details about it are vague but rates seem high. Does anyone have information about it. There is no name--just a Box number--Roundsound, Box 8743, Boston, Mass 02114. (Personally, I am often cautious about an outfit without a person's name and just a box number--ed)

He is especially interested in MR. PRESIDENT. He has 12.

WHO KNOWS WHAT EVIL LURKS IN THE AUDIENCE by Carl Erickson

For countless listeners in days gone by, the radio brought instant travel to exotic lands, fantastically bloodthirsty battles to the death, or tranquil settings beside a lake with only birds singing. At home these scenes were simple to conjure up, for with a little bit of stimulation from the sound effects man and some suggestions from the script, our imaginations created this world effortlessly. But what about the person in the audience actually in the studio or theater where the program originated? How did he see the adventure that was being told to the listener? What did he see when the villain was hurled over the thousand foot cliff to his death and his dying scream of terror faded away to a chilling silence?...Comedy programs, of course, relied on the presence of an audience. Ed Wynn discovered this when his early programs left him exhausted but without the feeling of satisfaction that came from a good job well done. Audiences were forbidden near a microphone until Ed Wynn had the sound-proofing glass removed so that he could react to the crowd. From then on, the presence of an audience was vital to many comedy shows. There were comedy shows, nevertheless, which succeeded without the stimulating laugh from the audience. These shows, however, tended to be more dramatic in nature than comic. The laughs came from the situation rather than from straight lines.

Dramatic programs were not really suited to presentation before an audience. Reality had a horrible habit of obfuscation fantasy for those who were there. The stage would be cluttered with chairs in unusual positions. The orchestra would be set off to one side of the stage, and in one corner, an oblong black box about the size of an upright piano would obstruct the audience's view of what was happening behind it. And rightly so, for this was the sound console with several turntables on it, a music stand beside it for the script, and behind all this were panes of glass with a little hammer nearby, a bucket of water, and a door frame with a wooden door on one side and a car door on the other. But these were out of sight of most of the audience. Behind the glass window along one wall of the stage, people would sit hunched over another console, oblivious of the action that occurred on the stage...What action was there on stage? Well, for the most part, it consisted of actors rising from their chairs to approach a mike, or to return to their seats after they had read their lines. Everyone clutched a sheaf of legal size paper firmly in one hand, holding it aloft as they passed one another to avoid dropping or rattling it. The announcer would remain somewhat aloof near the glass window ready to relay instructions from the control room. At the end of an act, he would urge the audience to applaud what they had just heard, and then he made his pitch for the sponsor's product. As the program neared its close everyone began to glance furtively and then more openly toward the control room to see if they were on time. Hand signals passed this information along: stretching the hands apart to slow down or rotating the hand to speed up the show...after it was all over, the stage emptied swiftly and even before the theater had emptied, the technicians were packing the mikes away in their special boxes, reeling in cable, and gathering up the mike stands. The actors, if they were Hollywood stars, would spend a few minutes signing autographs if their popularity were waning or just rising. Otherwise, they would have disappeared immediately after their last line. And the audience slowly filed out with remarks such as "You mean that's how they fall into water?" or "I wish I'd stayed home and listened to it." When the hero tells the villain to "Taek that." and just stands there while the sound man smashes his fist into his palm, well, that takes more imagination than even radio could supply...

MORE NEWS AND TIDBITS: Don Koehnamann, 811 Bristol Ave, Westchester, Ill 60153 has just received a 5 minute recreation of THE SMACKOUTS with Marion and Jim Jordan from a 1947 radio-on-radio show...Roger Hill sent me much of the information he is using for his classes. He is convinced our collections are a gold mine in themselves if we can only utilize them in teaching history, literature, mass media, journalism, nostalgia, and many other types of courses...Don Richardson, 120 Herman Dr, No Syracuse, NY 13224 is looking for WALT DISNEY'S SONG PARADE, a 150minute show on Mutual on Sunday afternoons starting Oct 19, 1941...

BRING BACK OUR OLD GANG: by Bob Vito

Out of the fog and into the night and into the American scene-- comes Bulldog Drummond, earnestly, looking for Mr. Keene-- and Keene himself, is searching. He's looking for the group That once made old time radio as rich as turkey soup.

There were many powerful heroes who fought their way to fame
The Fatman and the Shadow and more than I can name.
Let's not forget the funny guys and even the funny girls.
And don't omit old Maisie with her Thursday Island Pearls.

It's hard to find a radio that can once again renew.
the sounds of all those heroes that you and I once knew.
The sound of Henry Aldrich and Raymond's squeaking door.
Fibber McGee and Molly, the Nose and Garry Moore.
Gildersleeve and Beulah, Escape and the Witch's Tale.
Omar the Wizard of Persia, and commercials with their sales.
So come on Bulldog Drummond, let's round up all the gang.
and put them back on radio where they belong again.

MORE NEWS: Just received #3 and 4 of Remember When published by Larry Herndon, 1830 Highland Dr, Carrollton, Tex 75006. This is a very good fanzine devoted to movies, serials, comics, radio, etc. It has many stories, both new and reprints and many pictures. The 4th issue is devoted to Tarzan. 8 issues are $4.50--published about every month.

Unfortunately I had no room for the article on Walter Winchell. Write when you can, send answers to my questions, and spread the word. I am still looking for SUSPENSE, JACK BENNY, ESCAPE, etc. Soooooo.....

THAT'S ALL FOR NOW: Write if you get work, hang by your thumbs....
